SNOW STOPS THE NEW PALTZ BUS

Monday Night Half a Foot of Snow Fell and as Result New Paltz is Again Shut Off From Kingston—Phoenicia Line Still Storm Bound.

Owing to the fact that during Monday night about six inches of snow fell the New Paltz-Kingston bus line was not able to get through to New Paltz today and was running only as far as Perrine's Bridge. Traveling was extremely difficult and the busses were forced to proceed slowly. An attempt will be made Wednesday, weather and road conditions permitting, to get through to New Paltz.

At the central bus terminal at noon it was stated that the Highland bus had gotten in for the early morning trip, and that the Rosendale and Saugerties bus lines were operating. The Phoenicia line is still storm bound.

The Port Ewen bus line has been operating regularly over the Rondout Creek Bridge all winter.

The board of public works was forced today to put a force of men and sleighs at work clearing out the snow drifts along Broadway and the business sections. These sections were recently cleared of snow and made passable but the continued snow storms since then has made it necessary to do the job over again.

The snow that fell Monday night was followed by a slight fall of rain and as a result when householders started to clean their walks they found shoveling heavy work.

BELIEVE MAFIA KIDNAPPED NUN

Police After Foreigners From Whom Sister Cecilia Escaped—Was Chloroformed.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Frederick, Md., Feb. 13.—Police lines were thrown out over Maryland and bordering states today for the mysterious couple that drugged and kidnapped Sister Cecilia of Notre Dame convent, of St. John's Catholic Church here, yesterday.

From a disconnected story told by the nun, still suffering from the shock of her experience today, the authorities think she was chloroformed by a man and a woman—foreigners—at the convent, spirited to Baltimore and held for a time in a deserted hut.

While the kidnappers quarreled, Sister Cecilia, in private life Miss Marie Whelan, escaped and wandered about the streets of Baltimore until found by a policeman who sent her back to the convent in a taxicab. The nun said she heard the man and woman discussing the amount of the ransom they would demand for her safe return to the convent.

While giving a music lesson at the convent, Sister Cecilia was disturbed by a man and woman who she said were watching her through a window. The Rev. William J. Kane, pastor of St. John's Church, expressed belief the kidnappers were connected with the Italian Mafia.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, Feb. 13.—Governor Smith today pardoned four persons who were convicted of criminal anarchy, and who were serving sentence from two to five years. The governor recently pardoned "Big Jim" Larkin, who also was convicted of criminal anarchy.

NEWBURGH SELLS COAL AT COST

Upward of $3,000 worth of coal has been distributed to families in Newburgh needing fuel since City Manager W. Johnson McKay's plan was inaugurated in that city recently. Between 200 and 225 bags, each containing 100 pounds of fuel, are being sold at cost daily. It is announced.

The fuel stations are located in the seven city fire houses and the men at the fire houses volunteer their services in the distribution. Seventy cents is charged for a 100-pound bag of coal, and from reports made to the city officials, a great deal of relief has been given. The city manager's plan has made it possible for persons without fuel to have their orders filled promptly.

The coal is secured on priority order and is taken to the city stables where there is a bagging machine. Then the bags are distributed to the seven stations. Seventy-five pounds of anthracite coal and 25 pounds of substitute go into each bag.

The city aims to make no profit on the coal and calculations up to the present show that the plan has "broken even" on the part of the city and been a boon to those who had difficulty in getting fuel.

The Kingston high school auditorium has been secured for the concert which will take place Friday evening, March 16.

Hurry Call to Police Headquarters Led to Arrest. A hurry call to police headquarters Monday evening shortly after nine o'clock from No. 35 Liberty street resulted in the arrest of Jerry Ticefelt by Policeman James V. Simpson. In his report of the arrest the officer stated that Jerry had been misusing his wife and children, and also was intoxicated on the street. This morning in police court Jerry, who had spent the night in the county jail, entered a plea of guilty of public intoxication and paid a fine of $5. His wife did not press the charge of misusing her.

FATHER OF ONE COMES AFTER RUNAWAY BOYS

Francis Morey, Ray Roy and James Mullen, the 15 year-old boys who ran away from home at Watervliet Friday last and were picked up in the West Shore railroad north yard Sunday morning and turned over to the police, were taken home Monday afternoon by the father of one of the boys who came to the court house after the trio. A note written in lead pencil was found on Ray Roy in which he had written—"Dear Ma. Will be back next summer. Do not get blue. Your loving son, Ray."

First National Bank of Rondout Now Using Fine New Quarters

1,000-box Safe Deposit Vault, New Heating and Ventilating Systems, and Enlarged Space Among Improvements Made in Five-months' Job.

For a period of more than five months last past, work has been in progress remodeling the interior of the First National Bank of Rondout, to provide a modern safe deposit department.

When the bank opened for business Monday the new facilities were ready for use. The rearrangement and addition necessitated the use of the store premises formerly occupied by Marks Jacobs and the office formerly occupied by the McIntee Insurance Agency. The entire interior has been remodelled, the banking quarters used by the force of employees enlarged, an entire new heating system together with a complete ventilating system installed. The ventilating system provides a supply of fresh air, heated, which is conveyed to the various rooms by blowers, and an exhaust system equipped with necessary blowers furnishes a method of exhausting the impure air. Heating, ventilating system and plumbing complete were installed by the Canfield Supply Company of this city.

The York Safe and Lock Company of the city of New York, one of the best known and largest firms building safe deposit vaults, furnished and installed the safe deposit vault, complete in every particular. The vault is constructed of concrete foundation and walls, reinforced with nickel chrome steel bars. It is lined with steel 3/4 inches thick and the door is of solid steel rectangular vault construction 12 inches thick. The walls of the vault are lined on all sides, top, bottom, front and back with plates and angles built up of thick open hearth steel, thick welded 5-ply chrome steel and thick plates of non-burnable metal. The type and character is the latest word in safe deposit vault construction and there is nothing better in this line, built or installed, anywhere.

The firm having this work in charge planned and installed the safe deposit vault of the Federal Reserve Bank of the City of New York. The interior trim is in oak, with dark finish, all of the interior woodwork, including the handsomely finished work of the directors' room, is a product of the mills and workmanship of William O. Schwarzwalder & Co.

The floors, with the exceptions noted, are of cork inlaid, furnished by the United Cork Floor Company, of 50 Church street, New York city. For many years past this bank, one of the largest and strongest financial institutions upstate, conducted its business in quarters, which a few years back, were commodious and ample. The rapid increase in the use of and demand for safe deposit facilities has been met by the recent improvements, all of which will be appreciated by its numerous customers.

FIRST STEPS TO IMPROVE ORPHEUM ALBANY WRECK BLOCKS CENTRAL

Freight Runs Wild Down West Albany Hill and Crashes Into Standing Train—Man Fatally Hurt in Jumping.

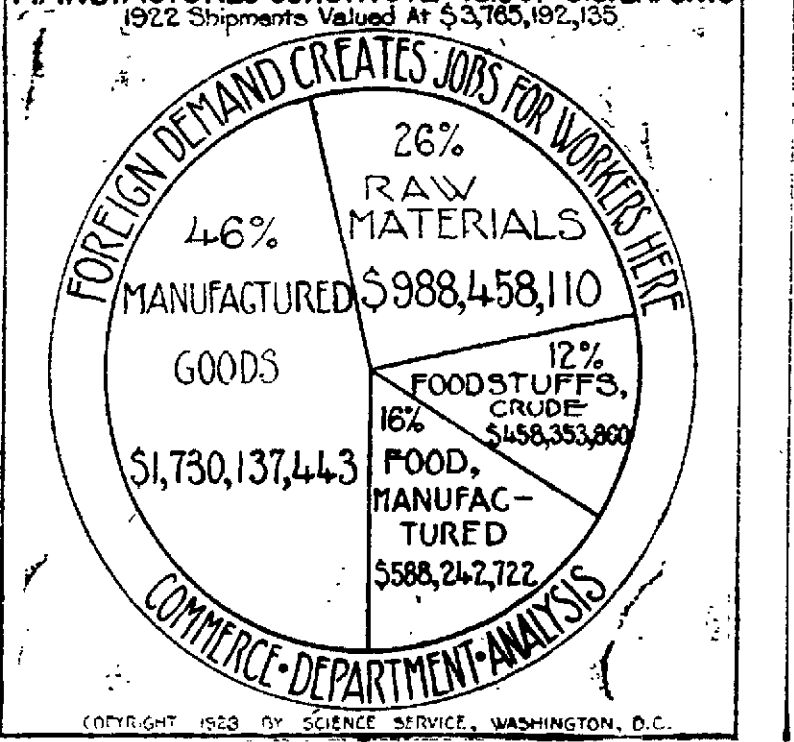

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, Feb. 13.—One man was seriously injured, two engines and 20 freight cars were piled in heaps on the Livingston avenue bridge, just to the north of this city shortly after 11 o'clock today, when a freight train ran wild down the West Albany hill and crashed into another freight standing on the bridge.

The man badly hurt is Oscar J. Harwood of Rensselaer, a fireman on the runaway train. His recovery is doubtful, it was said at the hospital. The man who was hurt jumped from the runaway train to Broadway, 35 feet below. He was rushed to a nearby hospital.

The tracks were torn up for 200 feet on each side of the bridge, and all traffic over the main line to the west will be delayed for hours.

MAY IMPROVE CITY STREET LIGHTING

Board of Public Works to Confer With Kingston Gas & Electric Company—Present Contract Expires This Year—To Investigate New Type Light.

The lighting committee of the board of public works will meet with officials of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company in the near future to talk over the question of street lighting in Kingston. The present contract with the electric company expires this year. It had a duration of ten years and was entered into during the Irwin administration.

The electric company has ordered several new types of street lights which will be installed, and the public will be given an opportunity of seeing the new lights as they will be in use several nights.

It is likely that a new type of light will be selected by the lighting committee of the board of public works. The new lights, if selected, will be of the latest improved modern type and will give more efficient service than the present lights.

When the new sample lights arrive they will be installed and the board of public works notified so that the joint meeting may be had.

GAME, EXCEPT PHEASANTS, STANDING WINTER WELL.

Despite the fact that there is four feet of snow in the woods, with some crust, the deer, grouse and rabbits in this section are standing the severe winter remarkably well, according to Game Protector Fred DeWitt, who is in close touch with the situation. The pheasants are less fortunate, much of their natural food being covered up by the snow, and Mr. DeWitt says they are showing signs of weakness in spite of the fact that he is systematically distributing corn where they can find it. While dogs are running deer to some extent, only one has been killed, that being a doe near Shady recently.

HERE'S A RECORD FOR THE HENS TO SHOOT AT.

Lasher Gets 44,180 Eggs in One Year.

Seeing in The Freeman last week an account of the egg product of Ulster county, I wish to add a bit to it. I have three hundred White Leghorns, some pullets, some yearlings, and from this flock for the past twelve months I have received 44,180 eggs, making a total of 3,681 2-3 dozen. If anyone can beat this record for three hundred hens I would be pleased to hear from them.

Yours truly, FRANK LASHER, 70 Fair Street.

POUGHKEEPSIE LIKELY TO HAVE NEW REGATTA.

That Poughkeepsie will be the scene of a second rowing regatta, of national interscholastic nature, was practically assured at a meeting of a newly formed Interscholastic Rowing Association held in New York city over the week end. This plan, in the opinion of veteran rowers, will do more to develop rowing than any move that has been made in the past. While preparatory schools and high schools have fostered rowing to some extent, in the past, it has been more or less of an individual nature and has not been on a substantial basis.

FRENCH AND BELGIANS, LENIENCY FAILING, TRY "BLOOD AND IRON"

Bayonet Prods Now Cause Germans To Carry Out Orders But Do Not Restore Train Service—Two More Towns Seized—Autos Commandeered.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Mulheim, Feb. 13.—A Franco-Belgian policy of blood and iron, enforced by bayonets, is in full swing in the occupied Rhineland today.

French officials claim that the former policy of leniency proved ineffective. The fifth week of Ruhr occupation has been marked by an all-around tightening of French military rule. Bayonets in the background proved futile. The French are now trying the cold steel on the bodies of the recalcitrants.

Not only are they trying but the French are using the bayonet with tangible results. In Essen alone a dozen or more men are nursing most painful stabs inflicted because the Germans did not move on fast enough when ordered to do so. The French have begun to disperse crowds by prodding the members with their bayonets.

The mood of the Ruhr population has changed from passive resistance to red hot fury which threatens now to assume a really aggressive character.

In the meantime the French are systematically perfecting their blockade of the Germans. They were obliged to admit, however, that rail traffic has become seriously impaired. Latest official figures show that 82 trains entered the occupied area and 74 left it on Monday. As compared with these figures, 3,000 trains entered the Ruhr daily prior to French occupation.

A high French official at French headquarters summed up this phase of the situation as follows: "We tried to be decent to these people and to make occupation bearable as possible. But they cannot stand leniency. They have got to be forced. They want force. Well, they shall have it."

New sanctions are being imposed to break down German resistance, the last being the occupation of the towns of Wessel and Emmerich this morning. French military authorities are seizing private automobiles everywhere. Newspaper correspondents are handicapped by this measure as the chauffeurs are afraid to venture beyond the limits of the towns in which they live. Yet motoring is the only means of communication in the Ruhr.

A new category of invaders has appeared in the form of scores of French plain clothes detectives who assist the French soldiers in seizing motor cars. When city administrations refused to turn over automobiles, the French grabbed them in the streets, ordering the occupants to vacate.

The food shortage is becoming acute. Correspondents in "making a swing around the Ruhr circle" found the populace of Vorhalle, near Hagen, most indignant and excited because the French had seized foodstuffs and then sold them back to the Germans at one third the price charged by German grocers. Thousands of heads of cabbage were seized and sold at 65 cents whereas the German grocers charge 180 marks.

"It is a cheap trick of the French to make themselves popular," said the mayor of Vorhalle, angrily. "The cabbages cost the French nothing. They simply take them. It is easy to sell stolen goods cheaply."

THREE DEAD IN SYRACUSE FIRE

Others of 500 in Big Bastable Office Building Believed To Have Perished—Loss $2,000,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 13.—One man escaped five stories to his death, two others are missing, probably perished horribly in the flames, nine were more or less seriously, and three buildings of a total value of more than $2,000,000 were destroyed in the most tragically spectacular conflagration of a generation in Syracuse, a check-up of the toll exacted by the Bastable block and theatre fire showed today.

The dead: John H. Shea, 112 Dearborn street, real estate dealer, who had offices on the fifth floor of the ill-fated Bastable Building.

Missing and believed lost in the fire: Otto Schwenn, twenty-seven, 523 Carbon street, salesman for the Robert Reis Underwear Company.

Edward L. Lull, 105 Melrose avenue, tailor, fourth floor, the Bastable.

The Bastable Building and the Bastable and Rialto Theatres, the Belvedere Hotel and cafe, and the Collins block, all adjoining from Number 201 to Number 217 East Genesee street were the buildings destroyed.

Mr. Shea, trapped in his offices on the fifth floor of the building, leaped from a window to a net which volunteers held six feet below.

He struck a wire twelve feet above the net and was thrown to the sidewalk. He died within an hour at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Five hundred men and women were in the 100 offices of the building, half of them on the third, fourth and fifth floors.

Firemen concede there can be but slight likelihood that all of those persons could have escaped.

Firemen and spectators tell of seeing both men and women fall back from windows out of which they feared to jump. These must have perished in the flames.

SUPERVISOR PRESTON'S EXPLANATION PLAUSIBLE.

Rode Down Hill, Now Uses Crutches.

Supervisor Carlton S. Preston of the First ward attended the special session of the board Monday night on crutches. He stated that while riding down hill with his little daughter and another small girl a week ago he had stuck out his foot to stop the toboggan which he was steering and wrenched the ligaments in his leg near the knee. He desired to deny the story that some of the supervisors had been spreading that he was steering a toboggan and was chased by a bob tailed cat, also that neither of the young girls had bobbed hair.

PARLIAMENT IN NEW SESSION

King Welcomes Debt Settlement—Laborites and Lloyd-George Threaten Trouble for New Government.

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, Feb. 13.—King George, in opening the new session of parliament today, with a speech from the throne, expressed satisfaction over the agreement reached with the United States for paying the British war debt.

"I welcome the prospective settlement of our debt to the United States which reflects the determination of our people to meet their obligations," said the king.

King George urged government economy by cutting down national expenditures. He voiced concern over continued distress from unemployment, but announced that relief measures were progressing. The king predicted an increasing revival of trade and announced additional credit facilities would be proposed to aid agriculture.

The king said that there would be reforms in local taxation as well as in rents.

Parliament opened under a cloud of impending strife, for the laborites, aided by a faction under former Premier Lloyd George, threaten to attack the government's foreign policy, especially as it affects the Ruhr and the Near East. Laborites said that the recall of the British army of occupation from the Rhine would be demanded.

A long session is in prospect and in view of the large number of vital problems hanging fire, it probably will be one of the most important in years.

Before the session ends, it is likely that definite action will be taken regarding withdrawal from Palestine and Mesopotamia as well as from the Rhine.

The opening was attended with all the traditional royal pomp and pageantry. Crowds lined the streets around Parliament Building. Members began arriving hours before time for the speaker to call the session to order. Col. Alexander was on hand at four o'clock in the morning. The first Laborite member was on hand at 7 o'clock. Viscountess Astor appeared at 8 o'clock, looking cheerful and fit and apparently recovered entirely from the strain under which she was suffering when the last session adjourned.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC LEAGUE

Formed at Newburgh Saturday—To be Governed by Superintendent of Schools—Eligibility Rules—One of the biggest steps that have been taken in some time towards the promotion of interscholastic athletics in this section of the state was taken last Saturday when the D-U-S-O County Interscholastic Athletic Association was launched at Newburgh. The new league is made up of the Middletown, Port Jervis, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Kingston High Schools. The officers of the league are: President, F. J. Gage, superintendent of schools at Newburgh; vice president, Arthur Naylor, superintendent of schools at Port Jervis; secretary, M. J. Michael, superintendent of schools at Kingston. The league will be governed by an executive council and the constitution and eligibility rules which were adopted at the meeting last Saturday. The outstanding features of the new constitution are as follows: Membership in this league shall be limited to schools in the counties of Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange. All business of the association will be conducted by the executive council, consisting of the superintendent of schools of the cities forming the league, or his regular appointed deputy. The executive council shall determine the schedule of all league games of the association and shall, through its president, name the officials for the league games. The executive council shall have final decision in all cases of protested games. The following eligibility rules were adopted: 1. A player on any team must be registered in the high school he is to represent not later than three weeks from the opening of the term and must have been in attendance 50 per cent of the time from date of his enrollment that school year to date of the league game. 2. A player must be in good standing, taking sufficient subjects to make an aggregate amount of 14 Regents' counts, not less than 9 of which must be new work, and must maintain a grade of 75 per cent in daily work in sufficient subjects to total 14 Regents' counts. 3. No pupil may represent his high school in athletics during his last previous year in school, has not passed at least 12½ school or Regents' academic counts of work, according to the Regents' valuation of subjects, except that a pupil entering high school from the grades shall not be bound by this rule for the first year. 4. No player who has passed his 21st birthday prior to the opening games in the league, shall be allowed to participate in any contest. 5. A pupil may represent his high school in athletics during the four calendar years immediately following the date of his first registration in high school but not thereafter. (This rule is to become effective on September 1, 1924.) 6. No player shall be allowed to represent the school team and during the same season play on teams representing other organizations, Sunday School, City League or any regular organized team. The beginning of the season shall be coincident with the first interscholastic game. 7. All players must be amateurs according to the definition formulated by the New York State Educational Department. 8. Players must be undergraduates. The constitution and eligibility rules were drawn up by Principal C. W. Lewis of the local high school, and adopted by the different schools in substantially the same form as suggested by him.

DR. BARAGWANATH TALKS AT SPENCER'S SCHOOL.

Spencer's Business School celebrated Lincoln's birthday on Monday afternoon in a unique manner. All the pupils were called together and then Charles L. Kelly, the head of the school, introduced Dr. T. H. Baragwanath, pastor of St. James' Church.

Of course, his theme was the immortal Lincoln. And he made a happy hit with his address, in which he held up the great typical American as an example for the youth of today. He told some of the inimitable stories which the great statesman employed to hit the mark, and they never failed to do this. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was given the doctor for his eloquent address. In the near future he has promised to repeat his visit and speak to the students on worthwhile books.

"AUNT DINAH'S PARTY" A GOSSIP FACTORY.

Rehearsals for the play, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party," are producing some rare talent and indications are that an entertainment of merit will be brought to completion for production in the Sunday school room of the St. James M. E. Church on the evenings of February 27 and 28. The general theme of the play includes a modern gossip factory in a typical small town and also reminds one of the growing scarcity of young men of the matrimonial age. The cast includes several interesting characters that remind you of someone you know.

Seldom Is.

A particularly small but very dapper man was walking between two fashionably attired girls along Wall street.

At the corner of a side street they happened to pass two newsboys who looked at them sharply and grinned.

To the obvious embarrassment of the girls' escort, one of the boys said: "Ain't much ham in the sandwich, is there, Bill?"

Another thing we can imagine is growing better and better day by day, and that is Dr. Coue's bank account.

HOLD A STATION WHEN YOU GET IT, SAYS KING

H. L. King of the Postal Telegraph Company, who has an "at-water-kent" radio equipment purchased from Charles A. Warren installed in his home on Pine street connected with 15 different stations on Sunday. He says he started with Atlanta, Ga., next picking up Memphis, Tenn., Kansas City, Mo., Detroit, Mich., Youngstown, Ohio, Chicago, Houston, Texas, and then a number nearer Kingston, and since the installation of the radio set has had no trouble with it. Mr. King suggests that if owners or operators when they get a station will stand by until done, and not keep turning the dials so fast in trying to get so many stations, they will get better results and will cause less trouble and noises for others who own radio sets.

400 AT LINCOLN DAY SUPPER

Inmaculate Conception Parish Annual Event Proves Popular As Ever—Judges Talk on Lincoln Themes.

The new White Eagle Hall on Delaware avenue was the scene of the first annual parish supper of the Inmaculate Conception Church when the ladies of the Holy Rosary Sodality served a very pleasing and appetizing meal. Over four hundred of the parishioners and their friends attended the gathering which was for the purpose of promoting the spirit of America among these enthusiastic people. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion, with large American flags and pictures of Abraham Lincoln. The supper was such a success that announcement was made that hereafter it would be of an annual affair. After the four hundred people had had their share of the sumptuous repast the Rev. Father I. Bladyga, acting as toastmaster, introduced Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck who complimented the people on their enterprise and then addressed them in a patriotic vein. His talk was greatly appreciated by the people. Judge Jenkins also addressed them with words appropriate to the occasion. Both speakers were given hearty and enthusiastic ovations at the close. Unusual to a Tenderfoot's Ears.
A tall, angular, high-booted, long-haired resident of Oklahoma stepped into a drug store in Oklahoma City one night during the inaugural barbecue. "Say, podner, d'ye happen to know whurist is the Happy Huntin' Groun' roundin' house? I'm kinda tuckered out, and thought I'd sleep a little." No one in the store could recall such a place as mentioned by the visitor. The Oklahoman backed up to a stove, stood with his hands stretched behind him and teetering back and forth in a heel-to-heel movement he said to anyone who cared to listen:

"By Gad, she's cold out t'night, ez a well digger's foot."—Kansas City Star.

IN KNICKER TOGS

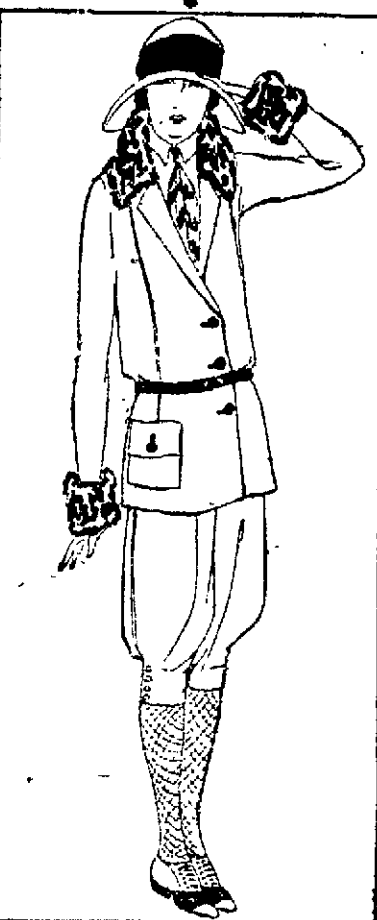

Outfit Assures Comfort for All Out-of-Doors Activity.

Suit of Suede Looks Very Much Like Soft Velours; Susceptible to Harder Wear.

The knicker suits have really come into their own. Everywhere one goes in the country or the suburbs this extremely wearable type of suit is to be seen. We have passed the day, notes a fashion writer in the New York Times, when they are looked upon askance, and we have entered upon an era where the comfortable dressing of women for the parts they are playing at the moment is a thing quite taken for granted.

There is a suit which carries with it all of the latest appendages regarded as necessary for the sporty constructed knicker suit. The trousers are left to blouse a little about the knees, but they are fitted into nicely regulated cuffs that button snugly over the knees and top the ends of sport stockings exactly suited to the general character of the costume. The suit was made of a soft and pliable quality of suede, which, when it is properly selected and handled, looks very much like a soft velours. However, it is susceptible of much harder and more continuous wear and can be made to fit any occasion of sport with the utmost smartness. This suit was trimmed with neatly fitted collar and cuffs of civet cat, and as the color of the suede was a deep, dark gray the black and white of the fur's pattern had a particularly nice blending with the character of the suit as a whole.

In an outfit of this sort a girl can be eminently well dressed and she can manage to create a certain sensation just at this time because the quality of the material is so new an idea in the realms of style. But, of course, there are always the tweeds in all colors and weaves for those who are more conservative and reticent in their tastes. Every one appreciates and likes a tweed. Our education has been so conducted that we are ready to accept even a suit of knickers in this well-loved material. It fills all of our wants and needs with the greatest amount of satisfaction.

The soft blouse and the string necktie with its restrained but colorful stripes are the natural and smart accompaniments to a suit of this sort. Arranged in the whole combination a girl is ready for outdoor sports of almost any variety in the winter time. If she needs a bit of extra warmth then there is her fur coat to be slipped over the suit, or she may prefer a tweed topcoat, which, after all, is not so heavy a thing to carry about and usually has enough warmth to make it right over a suit of this particular character.

AMONG THE NEWEST FABRICS

Unexpected Oddities Are Found in Latest Patterns Offered in Apparel for Women.

One doesn't expect stripes of fuzzy plush on crepe. No, nor velvet stripes on chiffon, but one finds these and other unexpected oddities in the newest fabrics.

Heavy brocaded crepes are shown in beautiful and complicated patterns. The chiffons brocaded or striped in velvet are the most exquisite things combining backgrounds of neutral tints with brilliant patterns in what one might call bas-relief.

Finest striped satin or crepe is advocated for afternoon gowns striking in effect and simple in line. These are developed in two colors, too, and are often very effective.

Smart Evening Gown.
One of the smartest costumes for evening consists of a sleeveless dress of velvet with a long gathered cape to match. Both cape and frock are embroidered in a conventional design in metal thread and the cape collar is made of interlaced strips of velvet.

A Faithful Sexton.
"It may be questioned," says a southern man, "if important personages derive as much satisfaction from their greatness as do some lesser holders of authority that magnify their office. In my town there is an amusing old colored sexton, a most efficient one, too, who is a very odd character."

"About a month after the coming of a new minister to his church he was met in the street by an old parishioner who asked:

"Well, Moses, how is the new minister going to do?"

"Oh," said Moses, "we is gittin' him into shape by degrees."

Would Sacrifice Tooth for Dime.
Carroll had a tooth pulled and through some miraculous agency known only to mothers and fathers that tooth placed under his pillow at night had turned into a silver dime.

Not many days later Carroll presented himself at his father's office and demanded that another tooth be pulled. Upon father's refusal Carroll grew insistent and finally between sobs of grief he explained:

"Walter hasn't any kire, and kites cost 10 cents at the book store, and I wanted you to pull my tooth so I could put it under my pillow tonight, and then in the morning I would have a dime and could buy Walter a kite."

Unanimous.
In one of the towns of the Pacific coast a distinct earthquake shock was felt recently, and when the municipal building rocked perceptibly the city fathers, then in session, left without bothering about the usual formulas.

The clerk, a man of rules and regulations, was hard put to it to give his minutes the proper official tone. Finally he evolved this masterpiece:

"On motion of the city hall, the council adjourned."—The American Legion Weekly.

"From Sublime to Ridiculous."
Although this saying is generally attributed to Napoleon, it is to be found in the works of Tom Paine, before Napoleon's time. Paine says: "The sublime and the ridiculous are often so nearly related that it is difficult to class them separately. One step above the sublime makes the ridiculous, and one step above the ridiculous makes the sublime again."

PLAYTHINGS OF LONG AGO

Toys That Delighted Children of Rome and Greece Much Like Those of Today.

Nearly all the most popular toys are survivals from the remote periods of human existence. Roman and Greek children seem to have had many toys like the modern ones. They played with balls made of leather and stuffed with hair or chopped straw. The men played a game very like present-day football.

The little girls had jointed dolls, moved by springs, and played "make believe" with bricks and with small models of furniture, such as tables, chairs and sets of jugs.

The young Greeks amused their parents with tops, both of the humming and peg variety. In ancient Egypt boys played ninepins, using balls of stone and stone pillars for skittles. Most of the children had dolls of either wood, metal, earthenware or stone, while the more fortunate glorified in painted wooden calves and porcelain elephants.

Dulcimers are mentioned in the Bible. Kites came from Japan, pogo sticks from Borneo, chess from Egypt, and drums and rattles from everywhere. Many a mother in ancient times kept her baby quiet by allowing it to rattle a pebble in a shell.

Although contrary to Islamic law, the Arabs had a distinct liking for dolls. Greek girls played with dolls almost from birth and dedicated them to Venus on their marriage. In various parts of Africa, different types of dolls originated, and are still common. On the Gold Coast the children spend happy hours nursing flat-shaped dolls.

In America, Red Indians and Esquimaux have always played with dolls, and when Cortez first came to Montezuma and his Mexican court he found them all with dolls of an elaborate kind.

Thus fashions in toys vary, but century after century they remain inherently the same.—Walter Reynolds in the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Suns in the Boring.

The Harvard scientists working at the astronomical observatory in Peru say that they have discovered and photographed 2,000 new suns which are just being launched into existence and which will some day in all probability be full-grown suns like our own, each with its own solar system. The nebulae are in the shape of whirling spirals of what looks like luminous vapor. It is supposed that they condense in the course of ages into suns and throw off pieces that condense more rapidly than the main body did, being smaller, and so become planets. Nearly 25 years ago Professor Holden of the Lick observatory estimated there were at least a half million uncharted nebulae to be discovered, so that those which have been discovered are only a small part of this number.

BREAKFASTS, BIG AND LITTLE

Really Makes Little Difference, Provided Requisite Amount of Exercise Is Taken.

Hearty breakfasts are recommended after being frownced on by many dietitians for long. Appetite, like conscience, was whispering the truth all the time. And those who "basely yielded and distended their rosy morning cheeks with wads of sirup-dripping buckwheat cakes and gobs of ham and eggs, went right on keeping those rosy cheeks; while the pale flowers of abstinence who niggardly and dolefully lifted to their sad mouths the breakfast provender irrigated with skim milk, grew no less pale if not more so.

One must interject distinctly here, that the robust and rosy, also made their muscular activity consume the heavy fuel their appetites demanded; for a generous breakfast should not be coddled by a whole day in an easy chair or even in a swivel one.

Eat what you like, but hike, hike, hike. "Shall I be carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease?" Precisely that is where one will be carried quite promptly by heavy meals and no exercise.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Fire Truck Has Four-Wheel Drive.

Fire-fighting apparatus has been improved upon to the extent of equipping large trucks with individual motor drives in each wheel and raising or lowering the ladders by air and hydraulic pressure, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The current for the driving motors is supplied from powerful storage batteries which are suspended beneath the frame of the vehicle. An air compressor, driven by a gasoline engine, is incorporated in the outfit and furnishes the necessary elevating power for the heavy ladders, the lowering of these being accomplished with the aid of oil brakes, or compression cylinders. The action of the ladders is so simple that but one man is required to operate them.

Ethics of Odd Jobs.

That a code of ethics exists among men of all work was discovered recently by a Woodlawn householder who hired a man to beat her rugs. She had seen the man loafing on the corner and asked him if he wanted a job. He said he was a truckman, and that he received 75 cents an hour when employed. He was engaged to beat the rugs at that figure. Finishing with the rugs, the householder asked him if he would put in three or four more hours scrubbing the kitchen floor. He certainly would not, although he needed the money. That was woman's work, he said, and he did not do it even at home. His wife had to do that.—Exchange.

Love Always Supreme.

Art is much, but love is more. Art symbolizes heaven, but love is more, and makes heaven.—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

SUFFERED WITHOUT A GROAN

Almost Unbelievable Story of Fortitude Exhibited by Mortally Wounded Sioux Indian Brave.

American Horse—a splendid example of the Sioux, stalwart, broad-chested and imperious—had been shot through the abdomen and his intestines were protruding from the wound. But his wife hastened to him and wrapped a shawl about his middle to hold them in.

With never a word of complaint he walked the distance to a camp fire and sat down. It was some little time, says Adventure Magazine, before the surgeons tending the wounded, white and red, reached him. An operation was necessary. American Horse declined chloroform in the tepee to which he had been removed. He had his own palliative. He spoke a few words to his wife, who scuttled out and returned with a short piece of hard wood. This he thrust between his teeth; he motioned the surgeons to proceed.

During the terrible work upon him the sweat stood out upon his forehead, he bit deeply into the stick, but he uttered never a groan, nor did he flinch. As he well knew, the wound was mortal; but he insisted upon sitting up, until just before dawn, he fell back—he died as silently as he had suffered. He was man and Indian to the end.

The annals of the plains are filled with heroism, but there is no instance more striking in bare simplicity and naked fortitude than this end of American Horse, who fought the good fight and lost.

Canada Wars on Beavers.

Beavers have become so destructive along the St. Lawrence river that owners of islands in Canadian and United States waters have been given permission by the Dominion government to exterminate them on the Canadian side of the boundary.

An experienced trapper has been engaged for the season and will make his headquarters on Dillingham's island.

Beavers have not been seen along the St. Lawrence before in a quarter of a century. They are protected by game laws on the New York side of the river.

Pay for Non-success.

Paying up cost unsuccessful candidates at the recent British election something like $50,000. England has a law which requires a man who puts himself forward for parliament before he has enough popular esteem to get one-eighth of the votes cast in his district to forfeit the sum which amounts to approximately $700 in our money. More than fifty candidates suffered the forfeiture in the November election.—The Nation's Business.

GREENE CUTS OUT SEVEN JOBS

Will Ask Increased Salaries for Others—Not Saving of $15,000, He Says—Money Must Be Spent in Other Ways, Says McGinnies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 12.—Seven positions in the Albany headquarters office of the state highway department, with salaries totaling $15,000 a year, were abolished today by Commissioner Greene, after he had characterized them as "soft political berths with no real work attached."

In a letter to Governor Smith, Colonel Greene told of abolishing the seven positions and said he intended to recommend a few increases in salaries, but that the increases would not total more than $3,000, leaving a net annual saving in the headquarters office of $15,000.

The most important of the positions abolished was that of chief of the bureau of tests, which was created during the first year of the administration of former Governor Miller at a salary of $7,000.

Other positions abolished include stenographer for the chief of the bureau of tests, superintendent of prison labor, three confidential inspectors and financial clerk. Five of these, Colonel Greene pointed out, are exempt.

"I believe some of the really important positions are underpaid, and for the best interests of the department I shall recommend a few increases. These increases, if allowed, will not total more than $3,000, leaving a net total saving in the headquarters office of $15,000."

Assemblyman McGinnies, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, took issue with the statement by Colonel Greene. He pointed out that the only one of the seven positions appearing in the budget is that of financial clerk at $1,800. The salaries for the other six persons, he said, were paid out of the funds appropriated for maintenance and construction, and these expenditures were for necessities, which must be met in one way or another.

Follow Line of Vegetation.

The great nomad tribes of western Asia, to whom we give the generic term of Bedouins, spend the winter months in central Arabia, which is their homestead; but as spring approaches they start slowly northward with their women folk and their tents, their camels, horses and sheep, following the receding line of vegetation until summer finds them in the Kurdish foothills. With autumn the southward trek begins, so that, by keeping almost constantly on the move, they are able to provide their beasts with pasturage the year round. As the Bedouins' sole source of wealth is in their animals, the necessity of providing them with food, rather than any inherent love for wandering, impels them to lead their curious nomadic existence.—E. Alexander Powell in Harper's Magazine.

Four Famous Bibles.

When John Baskerville was appointed printer to the University of Cambridge in the eighteenth century, he devoted much of his time to the printing of Bibles, four copies of which are now known to be in existence. Spartan lodge, F. and A. M., of Freeport, Long Island, is the fortunate possessor of one of these, its copy bearing the date of 1783. Of the others, one is owned by the British museum, one by the royal family and the third changed hands in Chicago not long since for $10,000. The Freeport Bible was the property of Thomas Adley Stophord of Baltimore, L. I., who, having no direct descendant, decided to give this Bible, which had been in his family for several generations, to his Masonic lodge.

Well Social Institution in India.

Daily, from Suez to the Pacific, millions of women fill millions of pitchers at wells and sources. The jar is heavy and fragile. The face under the full vessel often shows the strain of its weight and the ground about each fountain has its tale of broken pitchers to tell. In India the well is a social institution. In some villages there are wells for high-caste people and others for low-caste people. In some, members of low castes must depend upon the bounty of their betters, who gain merit by filling gingerly the vessels of the degrading ones. But in all, the well is a center of life. So it is throughout the East.

Alkali in Shampoos

Bad For Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulsett's coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsett's at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsett's in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsett's coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Beside, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsett's

RECIPE FOR COTTAGE CHEESE PIE

Try Some Cottage Cheese Pie.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Blend one tablespoonful of cornstarch gradually with two-thirds cupful of sugar, one cupful of cottage cheese, two beaten egg yolks, one tablespoonful butter or melted fat, one-eighth teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful vanilla. Bake in a pie shell that has been prebaked for ten minutes or until it begins to color slightly. It must not be brown, or the finished pie will be dark and unpalatable. Bake in a moderately cool oven. When set, cool slightly and cover with a meringue made by adding two tablespoonfuls of sugar to the beaten white of two eggs; one-half teaspoonful of vanilla may be added. Brown the meringue in a slow oven.

BUYING KITCHEN STOVE OR RANGE

Convenient Position Should Be Decided Upon Before Any Selection Is Made.

ALLOW FOR OPENING OF OVEN

Hot-Water Boiler Should Never Be Placed Below Level of Firebox—Floor Should Be Covered With Fireproof Material.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Before choosing a stove or range its proper position in the kitchen should be determined. For the comfort and convenience of the workers the stove is generally placed somewhat apart from the other equipment. Allowance must be made for opening the oven door readily. The oven is usually on the right and the firebox on the left, but in some stoves this is reversed. Where room is limited, an oven door that opens downward instead of to the right or left is a convenience.

Kitchen Range Conveniently Located.

Room for Water Boiler.
Room must be allowed for the hot-water boiler, if there is one. It need not, however, be placed at the side of the range, but may be suspended from the ceiling, though the horizontal boiler is not so effective as the vertical type. It must, however, never be placed below the level of the range, as the water will not circulate and heat satisfactorily under this condition. Since a boiler gives off considerable heat, it may be economical sometimes to put it a little distance from the stove and where this heat may be utilized, as for example, in the bathroom, say household specialists of United States Department of Agriculture.

The floor under the stove or range should be made of or covered with some fireproof material. A built-in base of cement or brick is best, but when this is impossible some one of the composition materials, made of a mixture of cement and asbestos, which can be bought by the square foot, will do very well as a protection for the floor and also for the walls back of the stove. Sheets of metal placed directly over wooden walls near the fire box of a stove are not sufficient protection. Some architects recommend a layer of plaster, preferably on metal laths, and separated from the wooden wall by metal turring. As an added precaution, sheet metal should be blocked away from the plaster with metal pieces.

Fuel Is Big Factor.
The kind of cook stove chosen will be determined largely by the available fuel supply, and its size by the amount of work to be done with it. It should be of reliable make, not only to insure good construction but also to make sure that parts can be easily renewed as needed. A larger range than is needed for cooking is often selected in many homes where the kitchen fire is used for cooking and also for heating in cold weather. It would be wiser in many cases to use a liquid fuel stove in winter for cooking purposes or else to have a small range for cooking and additional heater for warming the kitchen in winter, thus saving fuel and avoiding the overheating of the house in summer.

Surely Lacked Chivalrousness.
He was twelve, I ten, when he threw a stick against a hornet's nest, and led by 25 feet in the getaway race, calling over his shoulder to me as he ran, "Run, Louise, run like everything." His lack of chivalry snapped the love link that connected our hearts.

LEFT-OVER RICE FOR MAKING HOT MUFFINS

Easiest Ways for Disposing of Waste Material.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
One of the easiest and most palatable ways of disposing of a small amount of left-over cooked rice is to use it for hot muffins or waffles in combination with corn meal or wheat flour, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture.

Rice Waffles.
1 cupful cooked rice. 1/2 cupful sweet
1 cupful wheat flour. 1 milk.
1 teaspoonful salt. 3 eggs.
1 1/2 teaspoonfuls baking powder. 1 egg.
1/2 teaspoonfuls butter, drippings, or other fat.
Press the rice through a coarse sieve. Sift the flour, the salt, and the baking powder together, then add the milk, the yolks of eggs, the rice, and the melted fat, and finally fold in the beaten whites of eggs. Have the waffle iron hot and well greased. This recipe may also be used for rice fritters by adding one tablespoonful of sugar and frying in deep fat. If preferred, the grains of rice may be left whole.

Rice and Corn Muffins.
2 cupfuls corn meal. 1 cupful cooked
1 tablespoonful sugar. rice.
1/2 teaspoonful salt. 1 cupfuls sweet
1/2 teaspoonfuls baking powder. 1 egg.
1/2 cupfuls milk.
Sift the meal, the sugar, the salt, and the baking powder together. Mix the rice, the milk, the well-beaten egg, and the melted fat; then add the meal and other dry ingredients. Bake the mixture in well-greased muffin pans. This will make 14 to 18 average muffins.

COOKING MOST DRIED FRUITS

Most Important Point to Be Observed Is Not to Soak or Cook in Too Much Water.

Dried fruits are usually given a long, slow cooking in water below the boiling point. They may be soaked for a few hours, or they may simply be washed and put directly into the warm water for cooking. The important point to be observed, says the United States Department of Agriculture, is not to soak or cook in too much water. The dried product cannot be expected to have as much flavor as does the fresh, so pains must be taken to dilute that flavor as little as possible.

Most recipes for cooking dried prunes and apricots direct that two cupfuls of water be used to one cupful of fruit; but a better-flavored product will result if equal measures of water and fruit be used, and the cooking is done slowly in a tightly covered vessel, so that little of the steam escapes. Dried fruits may be sweetened slightly with sugar, or with any sort of syrup. They usually contain a good deal of sugar themselves. They are to be used for sauce, in puddings, fruit cakes and cookies, compotes, whips, souffles, and even salads, much as fresh fruits are used.

Household Questions

Rub the mud stains from clothing with a raw potato.

Use a red-hot iron for softening the putty to be removed.

Wipe out the bathtub occasionally with a cloth dipped in kerosene.

Spinach and carrots are iron-building vegetables. Don't neglect them.

A crust of stale bread boiled with the cabbage will absorb the disagreeable odor.

If a small piece of soap is added to the stove blackening it will make it stick to the stove.

Beat a pinch of soda into a custard cooked a moment too long and it will entirely change its consistency.

A few slices of raw potato added to soup that is too salty will make it just right. After the soup has been boiled a few minutes remove them.

Indian Beggars Never Starve.
Although there are more than 3,000,000 fakirs in India, a beggar never starves, except voluntarily in self-punishment, so afraid are the natives of incurring the wrath of their multitudinous gods if the holy men are not cared for.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

Almost any business man will tell you it is the little leaks that constitute the great dangers of a business. "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains," wrote the poet Goethe. Failure often comes through unwillingness or incapacity to eliminate small instances of waste.

There is a value in thoroughness that it is above computation, and this applies alike to the affairs of the individual as well as to a business concern.

The successful executive so builds his organization that leaks and lost motion will be done away with to the greatest possible extent. It is true, of course, that men fail many times because they try to carry too many details, but this does not mean that such details are not worthy of attention. The fault in these cases lies in inadequate direction.

The man who is at the head of a great business cannot attend to all the details of that business, excepting indirectly through his various executives. But these small details must be looked after adequately or there will be no success.

Thoroughness is an essential of business development. And thoroughness also is just as necessary to individual success and attainment.

There is need of watchfulness not only in financial matters, but in every other phase and activity in life. If, for example, one is thrifty in matters of money, but is neglectful of one's health, or does not keep up with the spirit of the times in which we live, or develops habits of mere avarice there will be no great success.

To be truly thrifty one must be thorough. And thoroughness means taking pains in all essentials.

Telephones in Finland.

Finland is a country about which we in the United States hear little, but it is nevertheless on the map telephonically speaking. Although accurate statistics are difficult to get, the latest reports indicate that there are in Finland about 45,000 telephones and a considerable number of interurban toll lines, all operated by private companies. In view of the fact that the population of the country is only 3,000,000, this represents a creditable telephone development, one which in fact exceeds that of France, Italy, or Belgium.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WINTER TALK

"It seems strange to me," said Mr. Skunk, "that creatures will sleep the whole of the winter."

"Out All the Time."

"Of course a nap is all right, a night's sleep or a daytime rest is all right, but to sleep right through the winter when the snow is so lovely and when one can enjoy life so much, is strange."

"Sleeping part of the winter is different."

"I cannot understand sleeping all winter. There is Mr. Woodchuck and the whole of the Woodchuck family. What sleepers they are!"

"Mr. Woodchuck wouldn't so much as grunt in the winter time if I told him there was to be no more food next summer."

"Not because Mr. Woodchuck would not be interested in food, but because Mr. Woodchuck wouldn't really be listening to me. He would be so sleepy that he wouldn't know what I was saying—that is if some one dug up the ground about his hole and brought him out."

"He would sleep right on, and the most one could possibly get out of him would be a grunt."

"Then there is Mr. Chipmunk who is a sleeper, too. Mr. Bear and the Bear children and mothers all sleep in the winter. Many, many of the animals do. Of course Mr. Frog does and so does Mr. Toad and so do the Snake families."

"But there are others who come out. Mr. Shrew comes above the ground often for a meal. The Shrew sometimes has a nice little mouse dinner."

"Mr. Fox is out all the time and Mr. Rabbit doesn't care about sleeping."

"I played a good joke on Mr. Fox the other day. He thought he was going to get the better of me, but I got the better of him with my protection—not a pleasant kind of protection, you may say, but a very good one, nevertheless."

"Of course I do not sleep all winter but during the very cold months I go to take a rest. I do not put myself in the class, though, with the winter sleepers, for many and many a time one can see me out over the snow."

"Two can see me if two are looking and the same would be true of three or four and so on."

"I did say, to be sure, that a night's sleep was all right, or a daytime rest, but I think every one should have a little holiday during the year."

"Most creatures would rather have it in the summer. That is, girls and boys would rather have it then. They rest from studying at such a time."

"Animals enjoy a winter rest, but I don't want a whole winter for sleeping or a whole summer for resting."

"I like to take a rest during the very coldest month or two."

"Then I am willing enough to take a sleep and a rest. The very, very, very cold weather is too much. So quite often I take a two months' rest and sleep."

"Then I do not feel the very severe cold of the hardest part of the winter."

"Mr. Weasel doesn't mind the winter. He is a terrible fellow. He can frighten creatures and he can kill them, too. He is feared by the animals, and no wonder."

"He changes his costumes, too. He wears gray at times and he also has a red summer coat of which he is very proud."

"But dear me, dear me, now that I am talking I feel the wind is getting colder and colder. The snow seems to be very cold, too."

"I feel it is high time I had my vacation. I will not spend it playing games and doing such things but I will spend it in rest."

"Then I will feel more like marketing for bugs and insects when I get up. I shall surely find some nice old legs where there will be plenty of insects."

"That is a pleasant thought to have as I go to bed! Yes, I will have a most gorgeous dream and then I will wake up again."

"This is my winter talk. A thought of the part of the winter I've been enjoying, a thought of the time when I will get a delicious meal of grubs in an old log once more, a thought of the rest I am to have. And one more thought of the way I can protect myself."

"These thoughts I have put into words and have called them my winter talk, but now I must have my rest. For a skunk wants his rest and needs strength and health!"

FISH AND OTHER DISHES

In the realm of adventure there is no more interesting story than that of the salmon, who leave their haunts in the sea, where they have grown fat and mature, guided by the mysterious instinct given them by their Creator; they return to the rivers of fresh water, where they were born. In the northern Pacific coasts they ascend rivers often blocked by rocks so steep that it is necessary to climb them; however, they leap up the sides or use ladders provided by men to aid them on their journey. Coming in great numbers, it is easy to catch them. Here they lay their eggs and their young are hatched.

Experiments with canned and fresh fish prove that each is equally well handled by the stomach.

The tuna fish is becoming a close rival to the salmon. Unlike the salmon its meat is almost white in color, and has a delicate flavor much like chicken; it has been called the "turkey of the sea." Tuna is especially well liked as a salad fish and for creamed dishes.

Salmon Salad.—Drain a can of salmon, and mix with one-half cupful of chopped cabbage, celery and fresh coconut (the dedicated may be used if washed in milk to remove the sugar), a sour pickle finely chopped and sufficient salad dressing to mix well. Serve on head lettuce leaves.

Lemon Catsup.—Mix a tablespoonful of grated horseradish with the grated rind of four lemons, add three scant teaspoonfuls of salt, the juice of the lemons, three dessertspoonfuls of white mustard seed and celery seed four cloves and a good dash of cayenne pepper. Boil thirty-five minutes then bottle. This is delicious served with fish.

Hawaiian Dessert.—Soak a cupful of tapioca in a cupful of cold water overnight. In the morning place in a double boiler with three cupfuls of brown sugar and enough water to cover. Add pineapple juice as required and cook until the tapioca is transparent, stirring frequently. Serve with shredded pineapple and whipped cream.

"PUSSYFOOT" FOUGHT OUTLAWS FIRST

William H. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, world renowned prohibitionist, will lecture at the Rondout Presbyterian church on Tuesday, February 20 Johnson became known as "Pussyfoot" when, as chief officer in the Indian service under the Roosevelt and Taft administrations, he personally arrested hundreds of outlaws who had defied arrest for years, and put thousands of them behind penitentiary bars. He not only achieved national fame as a detective but also had considerable success as an author of several reform books.

However, he is best known, as "The man who lost his eye in England," and it is with this incident that most people link up his name. After the eighteenth amendment had been passed in the United States Johnson went to England to begin his campaign which he said would help make the world dry. While addressing a gathering in one of the largest cities the mob became so frenzied that they attacked him and a missile put out one of his eyes.

Johnson has also conducted extensive campaigns in India, New Zealand and Australia and is regarded as a rapid fire and effective orator. While in India he organized 800 Prohibition societies.

SUPERVISORS IN SPECIAL SESSION

Favor Legislation For State Aid In Snow Removal—$40,180 For Palletville Highway.

Members of the board of supervisors of Ulster county in special session Monday night placed themselves on record in favor of state aid for snow removal from highways. The matter was brought up by Supervisor E. Young of Marlborough who stated he had been requested to ask the board of supervisors to get the state to formulate plans to keep the state highways clear of snow when necessary for traffic.

Supervisor Fratcher stated that there were several bills before the state legislature at present some of which will take care of the matter. That one of the bills advocated the diversion of part of the motor vehicle money divided among the towns annually to a fund for snow removal. The supervisors from the towns however did not favor the taking away of motor vehicle money, as they were needed for highway repairs. Various opinions were expressed by some of the supervisors and Supervisor J. Charles Snyder offered the following resolutions, drafted by County Attorney John W. Eckert, which were adopted:

Resolved—That in the opinion of the board, legislative proceedings for state aid in the removal of obstructions caused by snow would be beneficial to the people of the state at large.

Further Resolved—That the representative in the assembly from this county and the state senator from the 29th senatorial district, be requested to use their best efforts to secure the enactment of such legislation, and Further Resolved—That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the senator and assemblyman from this district.

Clerk Henry R. DeWitt read a communication from the state department of highways stating that maps, plans and specifications had been prepared for the improvement of Saugerties-Palletville highway, known as county highway 142, a distance of 3.02 miles, all in the town of Saugerties. The estimated cost was given at $114,800 of which the state will pay 65 per cent or $74,620 and the county $40,180; the road starts at Burns's Corners and runs northerly, northwesterly and westerly through Quarryville over the Quarryville hill, to and through the hamlet of Saxton to Palletville in the county of Greene.

The communication was filed and later Supervisor Fratcher offered a resolution that the maps, plans, specifications with estimate of cost be approved and that the county appropriate its share of cost, $40,180, and that the clerk submit a certified copy of the resolution to the state department of highways.

The board of election commissioners submitted its annual report of the work done during the year 1922, in conducting primary election, registration, enrollment and general elections with expenditures therefor as follows: Cost primary election, $3,675.95; registration of voters, $777.20; General election, $6,314; enrollment, $3,023. Filed.

On motion of Supervisor Williams the board of supervisors adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Now a Wireless Communication Trust?

WASHINGTON.—Representations that wireless communication in this country and between the United States and a number of important nations is likely to become a monopoly dominated by the Radio Corporation of America were made to the house committee on merchant marine, when considering the Kellogg-White bill for radio regulation.

The Radio corporation, now headed by Gen. Harbord, formerly assistant chief of staff of the army, is one of the most powerful aggregations of capital in the world. Behind it are the General Electric company and the J. P. Morgan interests.

The activities of the Radio corporation, some of which are now undergoing investigation by the federal trade commission, are alleged to be in the direction of establishing a wireless communication monopoly through control of patents, through exclusive traffic agreements, and through direct governmental grants and provisions conferring exclusive right to valuable bands of wave lengths.

The Radio corporation is reported to have closed a large number of exclusive contracts which will prevent any serious competition in domestic and foreign wireless communication.

In the case of a country where radio is a government monopoly such an exclusive contract would give the Radio corporation a monopoly of wireless communication from that country to the United States.

The fundamental question before the committee is whether the right to transmit through space belongs to the public or whether the right can be acquired by private interests by a process analogous to squinting. If private radio concerns acquire rights by prescription or by improvident governmental grant they will have gained rights of incalculable value, and which they can capitalize.

47 Years in Business

FEW houses in any line of business can point to a record of 47 years.

In itself it signifies foresight and good judgment and the ability to build on sound foundations.

A house that dates back 47 years has a story. Ours is this:

In 1876, Edward H. Rollins, previously United States Senator, from New Hampshire, founded the investment house that bears his name, in Concord, New Hampshire. This was soon moved to Boston, Mass., where the center of the organization still remains.

In 1887 the business was incorporated under the name of E. H. Rollins & Sons, with the founder's two sons, Edward W. Rollins and Frank W. Rollins, later Governor of New Hampshire, associated with him.

An office had quite early been established at Denver, Colorado. In the years following additional offices were established in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

At present all of these offices are operating successfully, with additional offices in such cities as Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Albany, N. Y., etc.

The system of closely related offices bound together in the one organization serves practically every section of the United States and is in constant touch with financial conditions throughout the country.

This organization can be of help to you. Let us answer your questions.

After Pacific Whales.

The Norwegian game of hide and seek will be introduced in another section of the globe if the plans of a Norwegian whaling company recently organized materialize. The new company will hunt in the equatorial Pacific west of the South and Central American coasts, says Consul Iff, Bergen, in a report to the Department of Commerce. For some time past Norwegian whalers have operated off the Congo coast of Africa, and it has long been known that the Pacific in the same latitudes is rich in various kinds of whales that might be taken with profit.

Then we had the cook prepare our meals, but we wore aprons and helped ourselves to everything and had a regular simple life for a few days. And," he ended, beamingly, "we only took one raft for the lot of us, because we wanted really to rough it, you see?"—New York Sun.

Harry Had Not Changed

By JOHN PALMER

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was twelve years since Harry Hurst had gone West—not in the military significance of the term—and here he was back in the Hargreaves apartment again.

"Harry, you haven't changed in the least," said Mildred.

"Not a bit," echoed Enid.

"Well, I can't see that the years have rolled over you girls either," said Harry. "Learn me, we must both be well into our thirties, Enid, and Mildred isn't far short."

"Hush, Harry," said Enid, laughing. "Sit down. I'll go and make the tea."

Harry and Mildred knew very well why Enid had left the room. Years before Harry had wooed each girl ardently in turn. He was a good fellow, almost like a brother, and which ever he had chosen the other would have smothered her pride and welcomed the match, because the sisters were all in all to each other.

And here was Harry back again, just as bluff, hearty, jolly, and unmarried.

"Well, Harry," said Mildred.

"Well, old girl," said Harry.

"I heard you'd made your pile."

"Oh, I'm tolerably well fixed. Going back West next month, though. The East isn't big enough for me. Might think of taking back a nice little wife, only the trouble is, I get so darned fond of every nice girl I don't know how to choose. Guess some girl will have to do the picking."

"Pretty hard on the girl," said Mildred.

"Milly, see here. You and I used to hit it off pretty well together. What d'you say?" asked Harry.

Color flooded Mildred's face. "Oh, Harry, my dear, I'm engaged to be married next month."

"You don't say! Well, I guess that finishes that," said Harry.

There was a little sense of embarrassment. Then Enid came in with the tea and they had a chat and laughed together. After tea Mildred had to go out, and Harry and Enid were left alone.

"Well, Enid, not married yet?" said Harry.

"Not yet," said Enid.

"Look here, old girl, I want to be frank with you. I've met lots of nice girls out West, but I always felt I wouldn't marry any one who didn't match up to you or Mildred. And I'm going back soon. Come along with me, Enid."

Enid looked at him in confusion. Her thoughts were very tender. Dear old Harry—unstable as water, and yet so kind and good.

"Harry," she said. "If you'd asked me a week ago I might have said 'yes.' But I—I didn't know you cared. I'm to be married next spring."

Harry's face fell. "Damn it, Enid, then that settles that," he answered. "After a little desultory conversation he took up his hat. 'Well, I guess I'll have to be going,' he said. 'I'll drop in on you again before I start West. Hope you'll be happy. I'm sure.'"

Enid looked at him gravely. "I'm sure I shall be, Harry," she answered.

"May I kiss you?"

"Of course, old boy."

There was the sound of some one in the kitchen. "That isn't Mildred?"

"No, that's the maid."

"Well, so long," said Harry, and he went out.

As soon as he had gone Mildred came out of the kitchen. Her eyes were red with weeping. "He—he asked you to marry him, Enid," she said.

"Were you listening?"

"Yes, I just had to. I knew he was going to. He—he's such a dear, isn't he?"

"A weak sort of dear, but I think a woman could be happy with him," said Enid.

"When's it going to be, Enid?"

"Why, I—I refused him."

"You refused him?"

"I—I told him I was going to be married. Why, Milly, darling, you know very well it's always been you Harry really cared for, when he knew his own mind."

"It was you, Enid. I—I refused him because I wanted him to ask you, and now you—you've gone and spoiled everything. I—I told him I was going to be married, too."

The sisters looked at each other in consternation, each conscious of the fatal forty years that was creeping inevitably upon them.

"Milly, do you know, perhaps it's best to have Harry just as a friend after all," suggested Enid. "For you see, that young man has such polychromatic instincts, and this isn't Turkey, is it?"

A Tough Job.

"I can't see what her parents are thinking of to let her dress the way she does."

"Have you ever been the parent of a sixteen-year-old daughter?"

"No."

"Then you have no idea of the difficulties encountered in endeavoring to get a sixteen-year-old daughter to conform to your forty-year-old opinions."

Of Course.

Mrs. Exe—I like daring originality in dress.

Mrs. Wye—So do I—provided it's in style.

Mrs. Exe—Oh, certainly. It must be in style.

Foreign Derivative.

The word booze has found its way into the dictionary, although some of them mark it "colloquial." Its derivation is probably from the German word bauen, which means to drink, therefore booze might be regarded as a word adapted from a foreign language rather than as a slang word.

An Old Billiard Drinker.

One of these little migratory stories that pop up and sometimes travel all over the country by word of mouth concerns a tenderfoot who, many years ago, seeing a sign on a little western saloon which read, "Soft Drinks and Billiards," went in and said in his gruffest tones:

"O'ime a Billiard!"

"The bartender, seeing that the man really thought a billiard was something to drink, started to make up a mixture of everything he had in the place, including the bar polish.

The stranger took the mess, swallowed a mouthful, and turned red in the face.

Game to the finish, however, he gulped down the remainder.

"Well, how'd you like that?" asked the bartender grimly.

"Well," replied the tenderfoot, "if I wasn't an old billiard drinker I'd say that was concentrated lye."—Youngstown Telegram.

DELIGHT IN PAIN

Fire Walkers Take Barefooted "Strolls" Through Flames.

Malaysian Natives Go Through Ordeal
Cheerfully With the Idea of Pleasing Their Gods.

Repulsive, heathenish rites, including barefooted strolls on a pathway of red-hot embers, as practiced today by the "fire walkers" of Malaysia, are described by an eyewitness, A.
E. Iverson, formerly of Takoma Park, now stationed at Singapore as a Seventh-day Adventist missionary, in communications recently received by his friends in the national capital.

"This ceremony of fire walking," says Mr. Iverson, "usually takes place in the planting season and is supposed to insure a bountiful harvest;
it also has to do with vows, each person making a vow, religious or otherwise, being required to go through this ordeal and confirm it.

"First, an excavation was made in the ground, about a foot deep, ten feet wide and 30 feet long. Several carloads of wood were placed in this, after the fire had been kindled, and left to burn for about an hour.

"Then, just before the ceremony started, the coals were so raked out that they covered the entire excavation. These people did not walk through the flames, but through the live coals.

K. & M. LOSES ON SLIPPERY ALLEYS

The newly oiled alleys proved a jinx to the K. & M. bowlers Monday night, and the Kingston Gas & Electric squad walked away with two out of three games. Bailey's team throughout did the trick for the illuminations, while Slawson did his best to prevent a landslide against the winners of the last half. Strikes were not as plentiful as they are usually, spares holding popularity for once. Bailey stood high man, with single game of 187 and average of 178. The score:

K. & M. Silk Mills.	Average.

Blue and Bluing Monday.
Among the answers to the question, "Why is Monday washday?" was this one: "Because Monday is the most miserable day of the week and washing is the most miserable thing in the world. By combining these afflictions into one the rest of the week is left clear for any other misery that may turn up."—Boston Evening Transcript.

KINGSTON TAKES LEAD FROM ALBANY

The Result of Winning Monday's Rough Contest by a 39 to 19 Count —Benny Borgman Boosts His Scoring Average, Making 20 Points.

Eleven hundred fans turned out Monday evening at the armory to witness a basketball game. Kingston and Albany were supposed to furnish the performance. Both teams were present but only the local representatives could be accused of playing basketball, the kind that would give satisfaction if they had opposition. Of course Bill Hepinstall's aggregations are noted for their unusual displays and last evening's performance was no exception. They were unusual, all right, so much so that Honey Russell, supposed to be one of the best guards in the New York State Circuit, was thrown out of the struggle due to his horseanship, augmented by a flow of language that might be used by an inebriated person. His consistent holding and wrestling with Benny Borgman, as though he was breaking in a western colt, caused Referee Solodur to call the foul. At these stages Honey would make his remarks. There was another prominent player in the game, well known to local fans, Harry Riconda, playing guard position. C. Husta almost ran him to death in the opening session and when Russell was ordered from the game Riconda thought by his leaving the court, everything would be all right. But he was mistaken for Solodur wouldn't stand for it, so the last six seconds of the first half Kingston had but four men against them. Long took one of the positions. The score at end of first half was 17 to 8 in favor of the local quintet. This fact explains very clearly why Albany was doing so much protesting and baggling. Benny Borgman had 9 points to his credit when Russell was ejected from the game.

Bill Hepinstall played the other guard position instead of Riconda when the second half began. Both Long and Manager Hepinstall are old timers and from this point on Kingston was given no real basketball opposition. During the nightcap session Benny Borgman scored eleven more points, making a grand total for the evening of twenty points. The whole Kingston team played an excellent game, and starting the contest put up a wonderful defense. C. Husta played a very good game paired with Borgman and ran his average up a little, making ten points. C. Powers was given the pivot assignment with Tome and Nick Harvey playing the guard positions. Nick Harvey kept the Senators' crack forward, Barney Sedran, from scoring a field goal. Morris Tome made a very creditable showing when the team was hard pressed particularly at the beginning of the game. Tome can still cut in, and when he becomes familiar with these baskets, will prove a good point getter.

Joe Brennan, playing a forward position, put up a good game. Brennan usually plays guard and his work is always noticeable. He registered seven points. During the second Long made two field baskets from long range. There was very little action in the last half. The game wound up in favor of the Morckenweck clan 39 to 19.

Out of thirty fouls Kingston was but able to score eleven, and eight of these are credited to Borgman. Out of twenty-four free chances, Albany caged 11. The baskets registered from the playground stood 14 to 4.

The usual dancing followed the contest and was enjoyed by a large number. The next game was announced for Washington's Birthday. Tonight the Kingston team travels to Albany to battle with the Senators on their home court. Kingston now is holding first place but Albany will jump in front if they beat Kingston tonight.

ST. MARY'S BOYS' MINSTREL SHOW

Was Very Pleasing Monday Evening —Will Be Repeated Tonight—The Program.

The Junior Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church gave its first performance of minstrelsy Monday evening at St. Mary's School Hall, which was enjoyed by about seven hundred. The show went over in big minstrel fashion, the jokes were distinctly heard and the solos and choruses were very beautiful. The boys were greatly encouraged last evening by hearty applause. A couple of solos hit the time light very noticeably. John Cullum singing "Why Should I Cry Over You" and Thomas Stenon singing "All for the Love of Mike." The Colonial quartet also received great applause.

The performance will be again shown this evening at St. Mary's School Hall beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Dancing follows the minstrel each evening. Refreshments which include a great variety are also served. Following is the program.

SIKI TO COME TO AMERICA, SAYS MANAGER

(By Frederick K. Abbott.)

Paris, Feb. 13.—With the ban against him lifted by the International Boxing Federation and hoping for an early restoration of his title, Battling Siki intends to go to America early in April in quest of bouts with Harry Greb and other leading light heavyweights. The writer was informed today in an exclusive interview with Charles Brouilhet, manager of the Senegalese.

KRIEPELEBUSH

Kriepelebusch, Feb. 10.—John Quick and family moved to Rifton Monday.

School opened Wednesday after having a two weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith attended the funeral of Mrs. Smith's brother at Kingston Tuesday.

Mrs. Eliza Davis of Lyonsville visited her sister, Mrs. Carrie Osterhout the past week.

Mrs. Sarah J. Osterhout is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Cyrus Van De Mark.

Men's Job Worthy of Respect. Some men work because they feel they have to or starve; others discharge obligations assumed, and still others from pure love of work. To all a man's job is his best friend, and by all it should be so treated.

POOR REWARD FOR BRAVERY

Evidently the Police in Some Parts of France Have Queer Notions and Are Not Strong on Common Sense.

Passengers on the Bordeaux-Cette express in France were saved from a hijack by a masked bandit blowing the pluck of a railroad man who happened to be traveling on the train. Feigning sleep he waited until the bandit was leaning over him. Then suddenly he pulled a revolver and covered the outlaw, who was then disarmed and arrested by the passengers. The latter were surprised to learn next day that this smart act is being rewarded by a fine of one franc and the confiscation of the revolver—the local police authorities having found nothing better to do than prosecute for the possession of firearms without a license. To this must be added a sum of about fifty francs for the legal costs of the case.

It seems that the local police who would not have caught the bandit in a score of years, have few cases in which they can prosecute and are glad to jump at every opportunity to show their zeal.

Women Won't Eat Standing

"Women are making a howl about their rights, and they are doing right well in their efforts to be men," remarked the old grocer, "but they are not taking full advantage of their opportunities. They are smoking cigarettes and rolling their own, they have their shoes shined in regular shine parlors, they run their own automobiles—those who have 'em—they wear wrist watches and they carry fountain pens that won't write. But they are overlooking the right to eat vertically. They refuse to stand up while they inhale their soup and imbibe their pastry. Go into these restaurants that have stand-up tables and look for a woman tackling her food in a vertical position. She just isn't. She never will be entirely emancipated until she can eat and run without getting up."

Living Wage for Keats.

What, I ask you, in the sight of heaven, is the fittest payment to John Keats for a sonnet—a thousand guineas or a plume of your little Elizabeth's golden fuzz. I don't want to sentimentalize. J. K. had to live, I suppose (though why, we may be at loggerheads to explain). But what is porridge without cream, and what is cream if you loathe the cow? Is not a living wage simply one that will keep the kind of life it represents fully alive?—Yale Review.

WASTE OF TIME AND MONEY

Why One Young Chicago Matron Had Her Phone Taken From the Party Line.

The inconvenience of a party line telephone, was amusingly illustrated in the home of a young couple in the suburbs not long ago, relates the Chicago Journal.

The telephone instrument for the reason, was located in a large closet. A hard shower came up suddenly at the six-year-old son was at kind garden, and as it was near closing time and Bobby was all unprepared for his mother went to the telephone order a taxi to call for him. No to her annoyance, when she took the receiver she heard unmistakable indications of a lengthy conversation. "Take a cup of sugar, two eggs, but rather than lose her opportunity of putting in her call as soon as a conversation ceased she remained in the closet. Impatiently she was taking down the receiver at short intervals, only to hear: "Then take a slow oven" and "No, I recipe never fails. I always use" but was finally rewarded hearing the final "Goodby, call me again when we can have time for long visit." After at last giving order to the taxi man she emerged from the closet, hot and cross, only to find that the sun was shining brightly. Ten minutes later she drove Bobby, state, all smiles and enthusiasm, his unexpected treat. That was the last straw. The telephone still remains in the closet, but the party line is no more.

To Put One's Foot in It

This colloquialism means to come a blunder or to ruin some scheme enterprise by an awkward intrusion. The original expression was to have been. "The bishop has put his foot in it," said of soup or milk that was burnt. Gross explains the idiom as meaning that when the bishop passes by in procession, the cook is out to get a blessing and leaves her ever she may be cooking to take chance of burning.—Chicago Journal.

Mechanical Coal Cutters

There were 486 coal cutters in South Africa in 1921, according to the official statistics of the government mining engineer. Of this number 80 were operated by electricity, the balance by compressed air. The erection of three or four of the electric machines were imported from the United States.

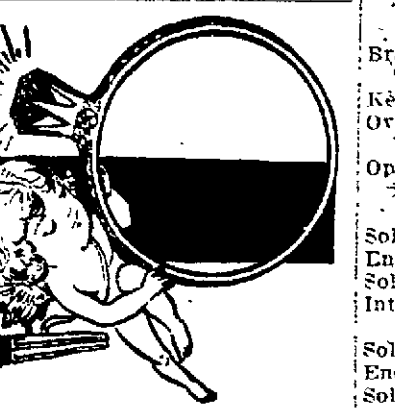

The Family Radio

The youngest and most wonderful of all modern inventions is Radio. To reach out into the infinite space and grasp the imponderable ether to serve our pleasure, is surely an achievement such as the ancients never dreamed of.

It all depends upon the apparatus you use to get the best results. We have all the newest in receiving sets, and your family can enjoy the broadcasting in comfort and get the best results. In no other branch of science is it so important to get the best apparatus.

If it's right we have it, and our prices are low.
